“ My greatest memory of Paul was when he lost his goat due to a dog getting into his yard, he was devastated, I was almost in tears reading his post on Facebook. I then messaged him and told him I have a goat he is almost human his name is Bobby and I'm giving him to you as a gift. Paul was so happy he came to my house and met Bobby and took him home that evening! He continued sending me pictures of Bobby as days went on he spoiled him!

“ Our deep condolences and our love to Paul's family and friends. We love Paul and treasure his memory--he joined us at many happy events including the Santa Fe Film Festival where he played guitar with us on stage at the Scottish Rite stage, concerts in Albuquerque and at the Colorado Spanish Peaks Celtic Music fest last September and the wonderful Irish flavored concerts he brought to us all in New Mexico including the ones with Sharon Shannon. We shared our love of poetry and music and humanity, and Paul's poems are treasures we will re read and cherish. We are sorry we cannot be at the funeral today Feb 29, but we are literally snowed in at our north NM mountain cabin. We are there in spirit and love for Paul. Much love to all. “ My most sincere condolences to the entire Trujillo family. Paul touched the lives of so many people in so many ways. Such an accomplished man. Yet, humble in every way, he saw value in others. He lifted people up. Instead of standing in judgment Paul will forever be missed by his family, friends and all of those whose lives he touched. He is no longer in pain but now rests peacefully in the arms of our Lord.

“ MY 9/11 written Feb. 24, 2024

Your death was my 9/11...

Your life, your voice..reminding me as you told me "I never stopped loving you."

I know, I know and all the emotions I wanted to share only with you, have evaporated with your absence

Simply dissolved within a cloud that I know not where you begin or end

In heaven's arms you lay, in heaven's gardens you will walk

*Perhaps you will smile upon me when I least expect it
Perhaps I shall feel your touch in the most unexpected place at the most unexpected moment*

*Perhaps...Who knows the hour?
Who knows when death lays waste to the body then stealthily moves in on TIME*

Something you and I never had much of..

Shall I ask why?

Shall I be grateful for the moments we did have?

Without the knowledge of you in this life, on this earth

Without knowing you still exist, you still take my breath away

Where am I?

Where are you now?

I want to feel your presence but I don't - it's like you've been snatched by an invisible hand that stopped your internal clock

*You weren't ready, I sensed that
You KNEW but you never said
Never said a word to anyone
I know you didn't want to go
I felt it wasn't your time
Then why did you agree to leave?
I still hear your voice calling my name, the one you gave me all those years ago..Jeanette*

I still hear your words: "You will always be the bride of my soul"

*And I still can't fathom your absence from this life, this earth..
From my life, still can't fathom your absence from my life*

Did you also know, really know that I never stopped loving you..

Your death was my 9/11

“ Mr. Trujillo, you were not only a great high school computer programming teacher, but also an insightful mentor whose impact has stayed with me beyond the classroom. I always remember working on in-class programming assignments along to the beautiful flamenco you played for us on your guitar. You transformed your classroom into a unique and memorable experience. The lessons I learned in your class have shaped my professional journey. I developed the joy for software engineering in that class.

Beyond the curriculum, your friendship, support, and encouragement made a lasting impression on me. I'm grateful for the conversations where your refreshing worldviews challenged my perspectives and broadened my horizons.

Rest in peace, dear Mr. Trujillo. Your presence will be missed, but your spirit will stay with me.

My Dearest Love Paul was my twin flame who said he never stopped loving me and that I will always be "the bride of his soul." Thank GD I reconnected with him after 24 years from Nov. 2023 - Feb. 2024. Our souls were always one. I'm so shocked he's gone and way too soon. He wanted me to go with him to Ireland...well GD BLESS YOUR SOUL PAUL I will always love you forever. Jeanette aka Janet
