“ A white dove is a symbol of love , peace and a message. On September 26 about 2:30 , i was at school on my way to my car with my friend and as we were walking , I felt something on the side of me so I looked over to a pearl white dove. As my friend and I stood there the dove began to walk up to us and circle around us. So I sat down on the floor and watched it feeling love peace and happiness, when I poured water into my core water cap the dove came up to me and started to peck at my water . As soon as I got home I told my parents and they couldn't believe it. The next day I had received news that my grandpa Ross had passed. For once in my life I had experienced the most amazingest moment of my life. I love you grandpa , your body may be at rest but your Soul lives on forever with the family.

I found myself reminiscing of a younger Ross. He was full of life loved to sing and dance. I can remember him playing guitar, singing with family and friends on many occasions. He was a good man and was lucky to have his immediate family surround him with love. - RIP Uncle Ross you will be missed by many.

“ Ross (13) I will miss you my friend. As your obituary indicates, you moved to Valencia County to begin your journey as a meat cutter. All the while, another journey was establishing. One, like ours, where lifelong friendships were created. One where your beautiful children met their spouses and delivered you the gift of grandchildren and great grandchildren. One, in order to provide for your family, you worked tirelessly, to the point of callused hands. And although callused, they maneuvered a loaded six string, for all to enjoy, including me. Ross you possessed the gift of passion, passion for your trade, your family, your friends, your two hometowns (Santa Fe and Los Chavez) and of course, your spirits, which I was blessed to share a few. I hope to wear my pants as strongly as you wore yours. Brother Ross, Go Rest High on the Mountain. Your work on Earth is done. Go to Heaven with your guitar, shouting, "For the Father and The Son. Con Amor Amigo.
