“ Me, Maldo, and Jeremy Maloy as Daniel Boyle for his going away party at Joe's. I always thought I resembled Dan but looking at this picture after so many years I initially thought Maldo was me. I will certainly miss Maldo's sense of humor and laugh the most. That dude could brighten up any moment with his giggle. I'll miss you, buddy.

“ Sorry for your loss! I met Maldo in the 5th grade Ms. Ruhe's class. The best class ever! I remember that class cause it was the most memorable class. The best people and relationships I ever had. Maldo had the most biggest, loving, caring heart. When I heard the news I just thought of all the good memories we had in class throughout the years. I couldn't stop crying cause we had a lot. He was a wonderful person. I'm blessed to know I had a really good childhood friend. Until next time Maldo!

“ Maldo, you were a blessing and I was honored for you to come into my family. I enjoyed the times we got to hang out even if they weren't as numerous as I had hoped. Life is a funny thing. You were intelligent, hilarious and brightened the lives of those around you. Thanks for being awesome You were a huge Queen fan and I hope you got to see Bohemian Rhapsody. I saw it and it was awesome. Will miss you. Go with our love into the next life.

“ There was nothing like your hugs. Nothing like you and me getting our laughter on and being heard through the entire store and everyone just rolling their eyes. Your warmth when i needed a shoulder, smile when i needed to be reminded the day didn't suck, and your humor. Thank you friend. Blessings be.
